EDWARD W.

mode in which philosophy operates in promoting human happiness; for this effect is produced, not by mere dogma, speculation, but only by the habitual practice of virtue; for most habits have a natural tendency to modify the mind in such a manner as to fortify it against misfortune, and, as it were, to steel the heart against pain. This has supported the courage of殉道者 at the stake; this has sustained the philosopher under bodily torment; this has given fortitude to the dying soldier; this has rendered even cheerful under the inflictions of sickness, poverty, and misery. His grace; this is the chief hope of the righteous in the terrestrial heaven which our God has prepared, a reward for the observance of his holy law.

Such sentiments may be regarded by some as inconsistent with my known opinions respecting religion; but since it is evident from my other articles that I use the language of religion in a figurative and practical sense, I shall be exempted from the charge of an unfriendly intention to detract.

Yours, for moral progress,
G. A. HAMMETT.

The Daily News.

Thursday Morning, Nov. 16, 1860.

WILL THE SOUTH SECEDE?
The cry of Disunion has been so often raised at the South, and by Southern Members in Congress, that men at the North had come to regard it as so much twaddle; and even now, when the Disunion fires are burning at the South with a fierceness hitherto unparalleled, it causes very little uneasiness. Like the boy who cried "Wolf, wolf," when there was no wolf, our Southern brethren have raised so many false alarms, that now, when they seem to be really in earnest, their movements fail to make any marked impression upon the people of the North.

That South Carolina means secession, this time, seems more apparent, it is true, than on any previous occasion. The decided action she has taken in raising the Palmetto flag, and the adoption of preliminary measures, render it clear that her back is up. It is also equally clear that she has strong expectations of being joined by Georgia, Florida, Texas, Alabama, and perhaps Mississippi and Louisiana. So far as there is a settled plan of action, it seems to be for South Carolina to lead off, try the depth of the waters, and if she succeeds in keeping her head above water, for the other States named to plunge in after her.

It is also equally certain that the border slave states, as Virginia, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri and Delaware, are averse to secession, and will throw the whole weight of their influence against it. It is also probable that North Carolina will withhold her adhesion to the secession scheme.

It is not to be presumed that men with passions fired like those of our southern brethren at the present time, would stop to count the cost in precipitating themselves upon a course of action. If South Carolina and her malcontent coadjutors would take time to consider the work that is before them in their disunion schemes, they would at least wait for a stronger pretext for separation than has yet presented itself.

The remodelling of their postal arrangements would not be among the least of their difficulties, while their threatened scheme of non-intercourse with the North would work much less smoothly than they now apprehend. But their greatest difficulty would be in sustaining their "peculiar institution." They would need a wall as high as that which surrounds China, to prevent a general and constant stampede of their slaves, who once upon Northern soil, would be free and beyond the danger of pursuit and capture.

Let the South look this thing squarely in the face, weigh it well, and she will be in no haste to dissolve the connection between her and the North. But the danger is that she may not do this, and having in her hot-headedness crossed the Rubicon, her pride, even after she discovers her mistake, would prevent her from receding.

But while the severance of the Union cannot but be regarded as a calamity, which the North, even, will have reason to deplore, let the Republican party not falter an inch. They have achieved a triumph in the exercise of their constitutional rights. Let them, in the further exercise of their rights, proceed to the inauguration of the President elected by them, and cleanse the Augean stables of the filth that has accumulated there during the eight years of misrule.

which the country has undergone under the domination of the Democratic party. Pursue a straight-forward course, come out nothing but the right, and if any body is dissatisfied, they must, to use a homely phrase, "grin and bear it," or if they cannot do this, "step out" as they now threaten to do.

WHERE IS STEPHEN?
While we would not be considered as exulting over a fallen opponent, one whose star rose with such apparent splendor and set in such inglorious obscurity, we cannot forbear the expression of a feeling of wonder at the whereabouts of Stephen A.

Douglas. The last mention we have of him, was a day or two before election, when he was somewhere in Alabama, and was overwhelmed (most unluckily) by the giving way of the deck of a steamer from which he was addressing a concourse of people, and from which disaster he escaped unjured. We really hope Stephen is not going to subside. We trust that the devotion to the country which he manifested so much of when his hopes for the Presidency ran high, was not totally quenched by his recent Waterloo defeat, but that we shall again hear his "clarion voice" ringing out upon the great questions that now agitate the country. The "Little Giant" has shown himself to be a man of parts and pluck, and when he gets fairly cured of his itching for Presidential honors, as we trust he has already, he will doubtless use his talents to good purpose.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS.

NEWPORT AND FALL RIVER RAILROAD.
It will be seen by reference to an advertisement in another column, that the N. & F. R. R. Co. still lives and has a being, notwithstanding the "rebuff" experienced by the ungenerous refusal of the Massachusetts Legislature last winter, to allow the road to enter their territory, instigated by the illiberal action of the citizens of Fall River, Massachusetts, who opposed it by sundry pretenses or make-shifts, all of which in reality amounted to the fact that they wished to debar Newport from the only feasible route for a railroad, because by the operation of the depot of the steamers of the Fall River line to New York, would be transferred from that to this city. While we concede that it is perfectly natural they should feel a reluctance to dispense with so important a fixture in their commercial interests, we submit that it is not just that the public convenience, (which would be greatly enhanced by the change) should be retarded, and our community doomed to comparative isolation during a great portion of the year, because our Fall River neighbors choose to take a stand of opposition to such improvement.

Mr. Wilson, Surveyor, has been making surveys with a view to locating the road further inland, and workmen are now engaged in examining the nature of the soil in the hills which it will be necessary to cut through to accommodate the road.

The meeting on the 26th inst., for the purpose of organizing the Company with a view to proceeding, trusting that the good sense of the next Massachusetts Legislature will induce them to take the necessary action for the building of the road. The Old Colony Company are still anxious to extend their road to this city, and are only waiting the necessary amendment to their charter to do so.

REMOVAL.—We notice that the New- port Democracy have removed their Head Quarters to B. J. Tilley, Esq.'s back yard, from which place their flag has been thrown to the breeze, still bearing the words "Democratic Head Quarters"—Douglas and Johnson." As "Democracy" departed this life in Newport one week ago last Tuesday, we presume it has been removed to brother Tilley's place, preparatory to burial.

THE OLD MILL FIRE.—Men are at work rebuilding the Old Mill destroyed by fire last Thursday night, and it is designed to have a portion of it in operation in about two weeks. The force-pump, in process of construction at the time of the fire, will be completed by the time the factory is ready to start, with a supply of water that will not give out till the harbor is pumped dry.

Meanwhile the Messrs. Rodman will run the Point Mill until their own is completed.

LEARY, GETZ & CO., the enterprising Publishing House of Philadelphia, are now engaged in the publication of many standard works of the most interesting character, adapted to the wants of the Farmer, Mechanic and Merchant. The letters, press and binding of all works from the press of this enterprising firm, are of the most beautiful and substantial character, which together with their contents recommend them to a place in every well stored library. Their edition of "Chambers' Information for the People," is the best ever issued in this country, and is sold at the extremely low price of 25¢ for both volumes, bound in leather.

SEEN AGAIN.—We understand that three whales, supposed the same seen in this harbor last week, were seen Monday off Easton's Beach.

MR. EDITOR:—Returning from a short cruise, I now report the appearance of three whales in this harbor, a few days since. They do not come into these waters, and when they came into these waters, the "Mechanics" and the "William Lee." Finding them safely moored at our wharves, and not likely soon to be fitted for another cruise, they headed for our neighboring port, Warren, but on reaching Rhode Island they missed the fact that the bark "Covington" was just on the point of sailing again; they took ship and hauled it out, not wishing to be overtaken by the captain and crew of that snug little vessel, bound, porting, no doubt, to take their chances where there was more sea room.

Will you be so good as to ask the New Bedford "Mercury" if those three whales were seen within a mile of any of their ships? It would appear that they had little fear of our Newport whalers.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE.—Pour a small quantity of the liquid into a saucer, and with a soft brush saturate the Hair well with the Hair Restorative, drying it with a clean comb, so that it may get well down to the roots; after this has been thoroughly done, take a cloth wet with any kind of clean water, and wipe the skin all around the edges of the hair, and expose the Head and Whiskers to the air as much as possible. You can repeat the application after every four hours, and the third application is seldom required. You can use Oil or Pomade on your Hair or Whiskers, if you wish, as they do not injure the Hair life.
